CIRCULAR LETTER.

NUMBER 8.

OCTOBER 30, 1891.

To the Auxiliaries and Bands of the W. F. M. A. of Indiana Yearly Meeting of Friends:

Four months ago to-day our mission school in Matamoras closed with examinations that did credit to both teachers and pupils.

The warm, dry vacation passed, and school re-opened the 7th of September. We were glad to learn from some of our later letters that they were having rain. We hope it will put an end to the long drouth, and with it to some, at least, of the sufferings of the poor in that section of country. The school is now as full as they desire it, and the boarding department is more than full of young girls whose parents and friends desire them to have the advantages of the "home." More than full! Yes, they are crowded so much as to take the little room built last year for a bath room, for a sleeping apartment. How we wish we were ready to build them the larger house they need for a girls "home!" Some of the auxiliaries and bands did well indeed, last year, in raising money for the building. What they raised will be on interest, gathering more to it, till the necessary amount can be secured.

The same matron and principal as last year continue their faithful care. Guadalupe Martinez again teaches the primary grade. She writes that she has fifty-eight pupils now. Carrie Ballinger is taking charge of Juanita Garza's room till she reaches there.

They have admitted twenty girls into the "home." Six of these have not support from parents or friends. Our Board is providing for four of them. One is Tiburcia Vasquez, from Santa Barbara, a city far away in the southern part of the state. She has been in the school, supported by our Association, four and a half years. She is now fifteen years old. We must expect that before very long she will be competent to teach in her native city. She has Protestant parents who love her and desired to educate her for a teacher, and for this have parted with her these long years, not having seen her since, a little girl scarcely eleven, she came over the mountains to our distant mission school, placing nearly five hundred miles of road between her parents and her, with no railroad to make the distance seem shorter.

A second girl is Julia B. Sylva. Her father is a Friend. Her mother died about two years ago, when she was but five years old. Her father is poor and did not know what to do with his poor little girl, for whom he had no suitable home; so he brought her to Julia Ballinger, for whom she was named. She was too young and sickly the first year to be put in school; but in the "home" she has grown healthy, and was in school the last year, and made very good progress. The matron writes, "She is a very interesting child, often saying and doing things far superior to many older children." Among several anecdotes we have been told of her, we give one as Carrie Ballinger wrote it to us. "Not long since she (little Julia) had told a story and sister took her into her room to punish her. As she stood before sister she threw up her hands—which is their custom—and said, 'Now, Doña Julia, I just want to know, in which language does God understand, English or Spanish?' Sister told her that He understood all languages. She said, 'O! I thought He only understood in English.'" Carrie did not say, but I suppose the child had told the falsehood in Spanish.

A third girl is Candida Barajas. She too is the daughter of a member of the meeting, and had been a day-scholar. Her father died two years ago, and her mother is unable longer to clothe her suitably for school or to furnish her books. She came into the "home" last spring. The matron writes of her, "She is a girl that can do well. She is about thirteen years old."

The fourth girl is Eduwiges Lira, also a girl of thirteen. She has neither father nor mother nor other relative except one brother of sixteen or seventeen years old. The matron writes, "Her brother came and asked us to take her—said he wanted to give her up entirely to the mission—that they were left entirely destitute, and it was impossible for them to take care of themselves. He seemed to be a nice boy, having a fair education and quite intelligent; but the education of his sister has been entirely neglected. However, she has a good face and it is said that she comes from a good family; so we trust there is something to build upon." She was taken into the "home" about six weeks ago.

A fifth is a girl from the city that is staying in the "home" at present without paying for her board.

The sixth is our Cirila Cervantes. She is fifteen years old, and has been in the "home" three and a half years. Before her father died she was a day scholar in the school. She has improved her time, and, as you may remember, assisted Lupe in teaching the primary school part of last year. This year she is not in school, but is learning other things. She is really paying her own way by helping the matron. The matron's latest letter says, "Cirila is doing good service helping me and learning to sew. She teaches the sewing class in the primary department." Possibly all our readers may not know that all the girls of our mission school are taught sewing. The matron teaches the sewing classes.

Since last May we have had a Bible reader at work in Matamoras and vicinity. She seems to be doing good work, teaching the Bible and visiting families. She writes that she is generally well received, though sometimes she encounters Roman Catholic fanaticism.

There has been a good degree of religious awakening in the school the last year. Two of the girls joined Friends last summer, and more would if their parents would consent.

We hope you will read the fuller account of the work you are helping to do, in the report in the Women's part of the Minutes of our Yearly Meeting this year.

Health at the school has generally been good since last spring, but two deaths from drowning have occurred this summer which were very sad to the mission and its friends. One was that of our Juanita Garza's youngest brother, a bright lad of thirteen who had been a pupil of our school while he was so small as to be admitted to it. He was drowned on the 5th of July while bathing in the Rio Grande. Just about one month afterwards, the brother of our little Julia B. Sylva was drowned, also while bathing in the same river. He was near the same age as Juanita's brother.

The Mission's needs for the coming year are much like those of the last year. Funds are needed to support our matron and teachers, our Bible readers in Mexico and Japan, our girl in Palestine, and our four girls in Hussey Institute. Indeed, we are working for quite a family when we count them all, and we are glad there are so many of them. Some of our Junior and Juvenile Societies are taking a definite amount of work in supporting a teacher; others we know intend to work to support Mexican girls in the school; others will raise money for the building. The Board looks to these young workers as great helps. We could not do without them. Some of them enjoy their work very much, and, we believe, both at home and at the mission, much good is being done in the name and to the praise of our Lord Jesus Christ. There is much to encourage us in the work, and no place to slacken our efforts.

We have had a beautiful letter from Sarah Cosand, telling us that Asa Kuno, our Bible reader in Japan, finished her course of Bible study last summer, and is now well prepared and is entering more fully upon her work. She is a very earnest Christian and devoted to the work of teaching her people the gospel plan of salvation. Sarah Cosand writes: "Arrangements have been made, for the present, for herself and younger brother, a member of our meeting, to rent a house to live in. She will also use the house for her Bible classes and such other work as she finds to do for women and children during the week, and continue teaching her usual class in our Sabbath school."

A letter written last Spring to our little Syrian girl in the Mission in Palestine was answered a little too late for our last circular letter. We will give it here, also her teacher's letter that accompanied it, both of which we know our children, and also some who are older, will like to see. Zareefie's letter, dated June 9th, written in those strange Arabic letters, and translated by her teacher, will be found on the following page.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE.

"My kind American Ladies:

"I am glad to write this letter and say I am very happy here, and thank you much for educating me. We learn Scripture, English, and many other things. I want always to be obedient to my teachers and do as they tell me.

"The people of my village began to go away to the wilderness for their harvest this month. I wish you could come here and see little girls carrying jars of water on their heads, and see our land, fruit, and people, which are so different from yours. Your far-away Syrian child,

"ZAREEFIE AUDIE."

Her teacher writes as follows:

GIRLS' TRAINING HOME, RAM ALLAH, PALESTINE, 6, 16, '91.

"Dear Friend, M J.

"Zareefie was delighted with thy letter, and has now written one in return, which will be enclosed with this note to thee. I am sure thou wilt see that all who are interested in her will receive it to read. I wish to add that Zareefie has made good progress in all her lessons, in sewing, in knitting, and in house-work. She is more womanly and quiet and thoughtful than a year ago. We feel that she will yet be a noble, Christian woman. Twice people have come to plead with her father to sell Zareefie in marriage, but fortunately for the child he was enough enlightened to know what was for her best interest. The girl herself scorns such an idea now. * * * * * Often baby girls three or four years old are sold in marriage. How I wish we could rescue many more of them! * * * * *

Thine, "ETTA H. JOHNSTON."

We have space for only a short talk of Lupe with the children. She will answer Mary's question:

Mary.—How do your people spend the Sabbath, or first day of the week?

Lupe.—They call it Domingo, the Lord's day, but it is the Lord's day only in name. It is a holiday, not for His service, but for all that is contrary thereto: the day for games, fairs, carousals, bull-fights, cock fights, theatrical shows, public balls, and similar amusements and dissipations. It is election day and the grand market day. The stores and other business houses are not closed. The more respectable class attend mass in the morning, and then they feel free to engage in any of these things through the day.

Anna.—How do the Mexicans converted to Protestantism do on this day?

Lupe.—They are generally consistent Christians, careful to separate themselves from these dissipations, and attend church services, and otherwise observe the day to the Lord

Harry.—Are there many of these Christians?

Lupe.—No, they are few compared with the others. There are in Matamoras two Protestant churches, the Friends' and the Presbyterians'. The number of church members connected with each is about the same and is not large, scarcely more than one in a hundred of the population.

James.—If Christian missions make so slow progress, what is the hope for the future of Mexico?

Lupe.—Her hope is largely in the children being taught better things. Few comparatively of the adults are won over

Eva.—Are the little children there happy?

Lupe.—They do not laugh and frolic and play so much as the light-hearted American children do They look demure and often sad; but in the mission home they soon learn that Jesus loves little children and wants them to love him and trust him, and be happy.

by Mattie Wright. Angie Pearson, Gave some very interesting, + instructive remarks, on the customs + life of Heathens in Siam. Asia. as related by an American Missionary, Mrs. Lowenyes. One of their customs was to live in Bigamy. The Young King of Siam is an educated man.
The Old Kings wife became a Christian before her death. The men look upon women as their inferiors. Although they allowed Mrs. Lawrence, to teach them. The King, would send, for her in the dead hour of night, to solve some difficult problem. & if she failed, to give the desired information, would tell her, twas just because she was a woman. She also, spoke of their manner, of Burial, & of the 2 C. Ladies, that are being educated, for Physicians. Lizzie Peacock, read a piece of Arose, Mission Work, & Workers, showing, some of the degradation, of woman, in Heathen Countries. She also, read, some Poetry, showing how much, we may accomplish, by the Master, by spending, 2 cts a week. Remarks, were next in order. Mary Wheeler, was thankful, we were not in bondage, as our speech suggested. Sarah Baldwin, thought, we needed to pray, more for them & Margeret Hiatt felt, we should try, to enlist others in the work. Mrs J. Winslow, wondered why so many Heathen, in a land where Christ was born. Zilpha Harez, was glad to meet with us.

Womens F. M. S met according to adjournment. Opened by Reading & Prayer. Although but 7 present the meeting was quite interesting. Alice Rich read two good productions one entitled, A Cry from Africa, the other Girl Life in India. The Pieces drew out a great many very interesting remarks and the description of the Girl Wife & of her, young Widowhood brought out the question, why they were considered so disgraced ~~disgraced~~ upon being left a widow, also Why they bury as they do, Carrie Cowgill read a selection Take Care of the Children. The piece was commented upon with great interest. Rachel Davis was impressed by hearing the pieces that we ought to be more thankful for our privileges here, Elvira Small requested to become a member. Meeting opened by Scripture reading and Vocal Prayer, with 12 members present. Minutes, of previous meeting were read, and adopted.
The newly appointed Officers, assumed their duties. Two on Programme were absent. Elvira Small read in reference to the departure, of Delia Pence & Dr Johnson, as missionary Emma L. Stunts. essay on "The Missionary Spirit." was so good, that it was ordered (by her permission) to be offered to the Far. Mount Times & also our Missionary paper, for publication. She took Paul as an example of a Zealous missionary. She spoke of the delinquency of our Church, in taking hold of the work, but hoped our zeal would atone for the loss of time. Sr J. Lindsay thought the Lord wouldent permit

the Heathen, to Perish, unenlightened, be glorious, to share, in hastening the work. wanted us encouraged to do, what we could, Emma Stout felt, we should devise a plan, to get the Young Hople, interested, as the work, to a great extent, would shortly, rest on them. Mary Wheeler thought, we should be more liberal with our means. Carrie Cowgill thought not only the Young folks but Friends, in general, at this place, needed, to become more interested, in the cause.

Emma Stout, suggested, that a Short talk on Mission work be given once each month, in

Woman's F. M. S. met at S. C. Cowgill, with 15 members present. President opened the meeting, by reading, the 10th C. hep. of Matthew. Vocal prayer offered by Mr J. Winslow. Dilpha Harvey read a selection written by Ella Davis & although she alluded to the great No of Missionaries in the field she also spoke of the 1,000,000,000 Souls Christless & hopeless. Sarah Baldwin read from our Miss paper, Scripture light on Missionary Work by Eggie M. Jones She exhorts with the Scripture text To sow beside all waters. We also thought her quotation very pretty & applicable

Let none then be idily saying
There is nothing I can do
When the souls of men are dying
And the master calls for you Take the task he gives you gladly Let his work your pleasure be Answer quickly when he calleth
Here am I send me send me.

In Mr J. Winslows essay She spoke of the great demand of the age Of the greatest work the Women had been engaged in the past 8 years fighting ~~into records~~ triumphant and now that the cry is being made for more Labrers in his vineyard. many of our noble women are willing to say Send me. Send me. For do we not hope to share in the glorious rewards. All on duty present except Cynthia Winston. Margaret Hiatt read a Wifes farewell by Dr Levi Johnsons wife which brought quite a solemnity over the meeting. Her implicit confidence in God under such circumstances should be a great stimulus to us. Some miscellaneous business was transacted in which our regular time of meeting was changed to seventh instead of sixth day at 2.30. Prayer was offered for the success of the work and our Missionary in Foreign lands. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Sarah Baldwin read a peice entitled The mightiness of Prayer, showing how earnestly George Mueller prayed and how soon his prayers were answered and that great Good had been accomplished by his faithfulness there in. also of Elijah of old and how soon after he prayed prayed the rain came down in abundance. It said we have all yet to try the full power of Prayer

Maggie Pearson read a very interesting letter from Miss Lowry a young woman that went from Marion Grant Co that as a Missionary and Physican to China. Tho labouring under great dificulty "and dangers, yet she says if it were not for my work the wealth of all China could not keep me "from my beloved home, but the love of Christ "constraineth me and I am exceedingly happy "in Missionary life among a people like these harder than "me can imagin before comeing here yet knowing "what I do now I would come again were I "in America. I am so thankful every hour of "my life that I was born in a Christian land and have Christian parents could the woman of America go with me one day into the homes of the suffering woman of China they would devoutly thank God for the priviledge of living in a Christian bountry

the woman of China are of all woman
most miserable I think unwelcomed at birth uneducated in youth enslaved when married and unlamented when they die

Angie Pearson also read very intresting reports of the work in Syria and India. at one of the schools in Syria the teacher and scholars had recieved a stove to warm the school room paid for by woman friends in Philidelpia the children and many of the woman had no idea what a stove looked like or how it could warm the room and not smoke until they saw it. Allice Rich requested to become a many yrs ago and being a good man he kindly gave passage to a missonary on the same

District Missionary Convention.

The Warsaw District Missionary Convention of the M. E. church, held at North Manchester Monday and Tuesday, June 6th and 7th, was a very successful affair. About twenty of the pastors of the district, and a goodly number of other active workers of the church, both ladies and gentlemen, were present to participate in the exercises and add enthusiasm to the occasion. The great attraction, of course, was the presence throughout of Chaplain McCabe to electrify the convention with his earnest addresses and songs of the heart. The people of North Manchester and vicinity turned out en masse, the house being packed at the first meeting on Monday evening. The Chaplain was in his best mood, and his address was immense. On Tuesday morning Rev. A. E. Mahin delivered an eloquent address on the topic, "Every Disciple of Christ a Missionary;" Rev. J. W. Cain read a well prepared paper on the "Need," and Rev. J. W. Work earnestly discussed the "Responsibility of the Work." Chaplain McCabe suggested many happy things in "How to Effect the Results." In the afternoon the question, "How to Interest the Children," was carefully considered by Rev. M. Swadener, Mrs. Geo. Hill and Brothers Mahin and McCabe. M. H. Mott read a paper on the "Present of the Heroism of Mission," and their methods of taking the annual collections were explained by J. J. McCoy, W. S. Boston, J. K. Walts and A. Cone. The Chaplain's review of the afternoon topics was full of the most telling points, and the most enthusiastic speech of the convention. His idea of getting 200,000 persons to pledge themselves to give not less than a penny a day was heartily indorsed, and the Chaplain was requested to prepare suitable cards and send 1,000 to be distributed in the Warsaw district. After another magnificent address by Mr. McCabe, on Tuesday evening, the annual collection for the North Manchester charge was taken, aggregating $235, or nearly $100 more than their assessment. The "penny a day" idea was very popular. If every member of the M. E. church would give as much it would amount to $7,000,000 instead of $1,000,000 every year.
